This park is where Hitachi had its Kameido Plant. The Tokyo Metropolitan Government acquired this piece of land and turned into a park. The park ground is divided into areas A, B, and C.

Area A has a clock tower and a children's playground. Area B has a hang-out area, a gazebo, and Nagareike Pond, with squares around.

Made as an athletic park, Area C has a multi-purpose square, tennis courts, as well as kids corner, and 10 different kinds of playground equipment, including Tarzan ropes.

The park is home to 4,000 flowers of 50 kinds of camellias, the flower of Koto Ward. It has become famous for camellias, as one can enjoy those beautiful flowers here in winter.
